

NEW SAFETY MEASURES FOR THE ANNUAL ROLLATOR RACE

At our last edition of the annual rollator race, a very unfortunate accident happened that left 3 injured. However, it turns out there is yet another victim. Victoria Blanton, a citizen of Cryondia and a contestant of the race, also got injured. The wheel that snapped off of Rosa Kjellberg's rollator, was catapulted in Blanton's direction. It ended up hitting her. However, nobody seemed to have noticed, and the contestant continued the race. Unfortunately that was not the end of it. 2 days later, Blanton collapsed and was transferred to Cryson General Hospital. Now her doctors fear that she might not regain consciousness.

To prevent future tragedies like this, an agreement was made between our Concilium and the government of Cryondia. Our Concilium has declared that there will be new safety precautions that will have to be followed to the letter by the event team and all its employees. Starting next edition of the race, every rollator will have to be checked beforehand to ensure that it does not have any defects. If someone does have a faulty rollator, they will be provided with a checked spare one. Any employees who violate this new safety measure, will be fined and fired immediately.

Furthermore, the Concilium has forwarded their deepest apologies to the Cryondia government and the family of Mrs Blanton. They have decided to refund the hospital costs, as to relieve some of the family's stress. The family of Blanton also asked for a compensation in case she doesn't regain consciousness. Our government and the family agreed on a sum of 20000 Crolon, which is 33516 Denarius. But of course, everyone is hoping that Mrs Blanton has not lost her fighting spirit and will wake up soon.
